

Hiroyo Ohya received the B.S., and Ph. D degrees in geophysics from Chiba University and Nagoya University, Japan, 1992, and 2012, respectively. She has been Chiba University since 1992. She is currently an Associate Professor in Graduate School of Engineering, Chiba University. Her major research interests include, characteristics of the D-region ionosphere, electricity of atmospheric global circuit, and coupling from the solid Earth to the ionosphere. She also joins the VLF observation projects, AVON/OCTAVE as the project scientist. She contributes to the activity of Study Group 3 in International Telecommunication Union (ITU-R/SG3) as a committee member of Ministry of Internal affairs and Communications (MIC), Japan, since 2015. She is an editor of Earth, Planets and Space. She is a member of the Society of Geomagnetic and Earth, Planetary and Space Sciences (SGEPSS), Japan Geoscience Union (JpGU), Asia-Oceania Geoscienc Society (AOGS), and American Geophysical Union (AGU).